Alexander Photography opens full-service Cuyahoga studio

Parma Heights, Ohio (January 10, 2008) - Alexander Photography Studios, a full-service wedding and portrait group based in Akron, has expanded into Cuyahoga County with a full-service studio in Parma Heights.

The studio, which is open seven days a week, uniquely combines the walk-in convenience of mall and store-based photo shops with the expert services of accomplished professional photographers.

“Most private studios are open limited hours and usually only by appointment,” said Paul Kopper, co-owner of Alexander Photography. “Mall facilities generally employ inexperienced technicians with little experience in photography. We offer personalized service in a highly artistic, relaxed atmosphere that gives our clients ample time to plan weddings and have portraits taken.”

Alexander Photography, which opened in Akron in 1992, offers a fresh, progressive approach to wedding and portrait photography, including high school pictures, in addition to a variety of photo services like custom-designing private wedding images into a personalized album and restoration of old photographs. The studio offers convenient services like passport photos.

Diane Alexander, principal owner of the studio, said she recognized the need for a professional, walk-in studio in the Parma area while working as the exclusive photographer for the 2007-2008 Parma Magazine.

“I think people deserve a lot more than they have been accustomed to receiving, and that goes for photography services too,” she said. The technology of photography has changed drastically in the last few years and has opened up unlimited possibilities that most photo studios have not caught up with. We specialize in capturing the intimate as well as the fun side of each personality we photograph. We’ve moved beyond the tired reruns of Aunt Jane’s high school yearbook shots.”

For weddings and other events, Alexander Photography offers exclusive White Dove releases and live bird displays.

“It is an awesome, moving sight,” Diane Alexander said. “We can release between two and 100 birds and we also can decorate the church or banquet hall with caged white love birds.”

Along with its work in weddings and portraits, Alexander Photography is the exclusive photographer for Image Builders Marketing, which publishes high quality annual community magazines for nearly 20 cities, such as Parma, Strongsville, Solon, Westlake and North Royalton.

Alexander Photography is booking exquisite weddings throughout Northeast Ohio for 2008-2009 and is offering special image packages and free consultations to emerging 2009 high school seniors.

Alexander Photography Studios is located at 6170 Pearl Road, Parma Heights, Ohio.
